Video Conferencing Scheduling and Management

Seamless Collaboration the World Over.

Across the hall or around the world, successful sales and collaboration fuels your business. In today's global market, organizations need real-time management tools to connect and communicate with co-workers and prospects alike. Add into this mix the increasing financial costs, as well as the physical toll of travel on your executives, and video teleconferencing (VTC) becomes the obvious choice.

Managing the exchange of VTC communications has its own challenges -

- Managing, coordinating and operating diverse devices
- Multiplying endpoints as your customers or locations increase
- Conflicting technologies as acquisitions occur
- Scheduling and notifying deficiencies via email or text
- Lacking conference successes due to incorrect set-up
- Diminishing productivity through constant troubleshooting
- Frustrating administration and users

Widearea Systems, a leading convergence technology company, is proud to offer a software solution that makes workplace collaboration, sales and meeting management uncomplicated and productive. Our simple, web-based interface, VC Wizard™ automates and links voice, video and data capabilities to multiple sites for limitless interactive applications.

For most organizations, especially those with broad national or multi-national operations, high-quality, multi-media networks and automated collaboration services are key to sustaining a competitive edge. The VC Wizard suite for video conference scheduling and management assures the most innovative communication tools in the industry will benefit your organization in the following ways:

- Improved resource efficiencies
- Reduced travel expenses
- Improved use of executive time
- Quantifiable returns on investment
